APRIL AND MAY.

She frowned and yet she laughed at me,
She lured me on with soft delight;
I followed and she chafed at me,
And hid her face with hair like night.

And when I'd waited, torn by fears,
Repentance made her glances sweet;
She wept, and lo, her rainbow tears
Spread drops of crystal at my feet.

But when at last I held her close—
Elusive April brought to bay—
She blossomed out like a lovely rose
Within my arms and turned to May.

Beautiful Reception is Given
By Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Caine.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Caine was thrown open to their many friends on Wednesday evening from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock.

The reception rooms were made into one and the decorations were beautiful, consisting of Easter lilies, roses and hydrangeas. In the hall the Easter lilies were attractively used. Little Misses Evelyn Caine and Katherine Allen greeted the guests as they arrived. Mrs. J. T. Searcy and Mrs. Frank Phillips received in hall, and invited the guests into the library, which was artistically decorated in bright red roses. Here a delicious punch was served by Misses Cornelia Hudson, Miriam Sykes, Mrs. R. E. Johnston and Mrs. Jamie Billups.

The parlor was redolent with the fragrance of pink and white roses. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Caine were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Simrall and Mrs. William Connor; assisting were Mrs. T. W. Hardy and Mrs. E. C. Ross.

Miss Mary Billups.

Mrs. Caine's exquisite taste was beautifully carried out in the decorations of the table, which held for its center piece a huge bowl filled with pink carnations and ferns, while pink shaded candles tied with bows of pink tulle shed their soft glows over the rich cluny cloth. Cut glass bon-bon trays held the pink mints and salted nuts. Mrs. W. C. Watson, Mrs. J. W. Lipscomb, Mrs. T. J. Locke, Jr., Mrs. Emma Campbell and Miss Weenonah Poindexter graciously served in the dining room.

Exquisite decorations of spring flowers made the club rooms a perfect picture. Euchre was played at twelve tables. Mrs. Carey Cocke made the top score and won the beautiful hand-made handkerchiefs. Miss Anna Terrell Hamilton received a fan. Mrs. H. E. Johns captured the consolation, which was a pink sun-bonnet, and Mrs. James Pope was presented a miniature rabbit for the booty.

Each guest was presented a tiny yellow basket with a chick perched upon one side. Very original and charming was the idea of keeping the score, tiny candy bird eggs of different colors being used.

Those on the reception committee were: Mrs. William Watson, Mrs. P. W. Maer, Mrs. T. J. Locke, Jr., Mrs. Willis Garth, Miss Mary Billups, Mrs. R. E. Johnston, Mrs. Charles Hays and Mrs. W. F. Patty.
